

WORKPLACE INCLUSION

At Spectrum Scholars, a college-to-career initiative, we believe workplace inclusion is a key instrument of autism acceptance.

For Samantha (Sam) Rosenthal, Spectrum Scholars ambassador, University of Delaware senior, and autistic self-advocate, acceptance means working in an environment that allows her to demonstrate the full array of her competencies and welcomes her neurodiversity.

In the video below, Sam Rosenthal shares her exciting employment offer at Disability Mentoring Day, an annual career exploration event.

When interviewing someone on the spectrum consider these tips:
<https://www.cds.udel.edu/Interviewing-Tip-Sheet-Final.pdf>.

Sam Rosenthal announcing the news of her recent job offer.