OFFLINE, FOR NOW

Delaware just grounded its primary election pilot in the wake of warnings from cybersecurity experts.

Many voters with disabilities counted on the pilot’s accessibility features.

How did the state go so quickly from greenlighting to cancelling the pilot?

How will people challenged by paper ballots vote absentee now that the pilot’s digital voting features are no longer available to them?

How can Delaware provide all its citizens with an elections system that they can access equally, and when?

Join us as elections experts and advocates answer these – and your – questions.

What happens next?
Sign up today for our June 24 Lunchtime Learning webinar.
Noon till 1 p.m.

Anthony Albence
Delaware election commissioner

Laura Waterland
Delaware Disabilities Law Program director

Virginia Atkinson
International Foundation for Electoral Systems senior global advisor, inclusion

Chris Ramos
Delaware Department of Elections director of information technology

Enroll at cds.udel.edu/lunchtime-learning or call Zachary Davis at 302-831-8879. Please request any needed accommodations.